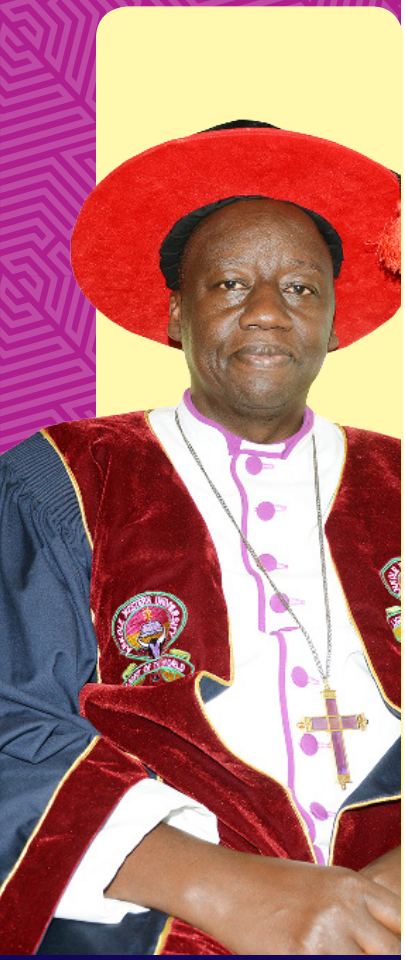
MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR



It is with profound gratitude to Almighty God that I congratulate our graduands upon this important academic milestone! Graduation is not merely the culmination of years of study; it is the beginning of a greater responsibility to apply knowledge, exercise wisdom and contribute meaningfully to society.

I extend my heartfelt appreciation to the Chairman of University Council, Dr. Nathan Karema, and all Council members for their stewardship and commitment to the University's vision. My sincere gratitude also goes to the Vice Chancellor, Dr. Andrew Ainomugisha, the Faculty Deans, University officers, administrative and support staff, and all who have worked tirelessly to advance our academic mission. Your collective dedication continues to strengthen Ankole Western University.

I equally recognise and thank the parents, guardians and sponsors whose sacrifices, encouragement and investment have made this day possible. Your contribution to the lives of these graduates is invaluable.

To our graduands, as you step into the wider world, remember that your certificates should be accompanied by character, competence and a sense of purpose. Let your education make you not merely qualified individuals, but responsible citizens and people of distinction.

> "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for human masters" (Col. 3:23)

I charge you to:

- Be good ambassadors of this University, allowing your conduct and achievements to speak positively about the education you have received.
- Keep your bodies healthy and your minds intellectually alert. Good health is an important asset in a productive life.
- Become job creators and innovators, rather than merely job seekers. Identify opportunities, solve problems and create value for others.
- Exercise nobility of character, integrity, humility and decorum in your private and public lives. Remember that true distinction is measured not only by what you know or possess, but also by how you conduct yourself.
- Make a lasting positive impact in your homes, families, workplaces, communities and nation. Let those closest to you experience the benefits of your education through your wisdom, responsibility and generosity.

Our University motto, "Light of the World," is both an identity and a calling. Jesus declares: "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven" (Mat. 5:16). May your lives illuminate the spaces you occupy.

And, as Scripture further reminds us: "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for human masters" (Col. 3:23).

Go forth, therefore, with faith in God, confidence in your abilities and commitment to excellence. May you become men and women of knowledge, wisdom, integrity and enduring influence.

Congratulations, and may God bless you abundantly.

Rt. Rev. Johnson Twinomujuni
CHANCELLOR

9TH Graduation Ceremony

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

It gives me great pleasure and honour, on behalf of the University Council, to welcome you all to the 9th Graduation Ceremony of Ankole Western University, held at the University's Main Campus on 20th November 2026.

Today marks an important milestone in the history of our University as we celebrate the academic achievements of 1,162 graduands who have successfully completed their respective programmes of study. This achievement is a testimony to their hard work, determination, resilience and commitment to academic excellence.

I wish to extend my sincere congratulations to all our graduands. You have worked hard to reach this important stage of your lives. As you graduate, I encourage you to use the knowledge, skills and values acquired at this University to serve your communities, contribute to national development and make a positive difference in society. Remember that graduation is not the end of learning, but the beginning of greater responsibilities and opportunities.

I extend my profound appreciation to our Chancellor, Rt. Rev. Johnson Twinomujuni, Bishop of West Ankole Diocese, for his spiritual guidance, leadership and continued support to the University. I also warmly welcome our Guest of Honour, Rt. Hon. Thomas Tayebwa, Deputy Speaker of the Parliament of Uganda, and thank him for honouring our invitation to grace this important occasion.

I commend the Vice Chancellor, Dr. Andrew Beinomugisha, the University Management, academic staff, administrative staff and all members of the University community for their dedication and collective efforts in advancing the University's mission. The remarkable growth in student enrolment, academic programmes and infrastructure development is evidence of the commitment and teamwork within this institution.

I further acknowledge the invaluable contribution of the University Council, our proprietors, partners, parents, guardians and other stakeholders. Your confidence, sacrifice and support have been instrumental in bringing the University to this level of achievement.

As we celebrate this milestone, I reaffirm the Council's commitment to strengthening governance, promoting academic excellence, improving the welfare of staff and students, and ensuring that Ankole Western University continues to grow as a centre of quality higher education and service to humanity.

To our graduands, I wish you God's guidance and success as you embark on the next chapter of your lives. Go out and be ambassadors of Ankole Western University wherever you may be.

Congratulations to the Class of 2026!

May God bless you all, and may God bless Ankole Western University.

Light of the World

Dr. Nathan Karema (PhD)
CHAIRMAN, UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

MESSAGE FROM THE VICE CHANCELLOR

It is with immense joy, gratitude to Almighty God, and a deep sense of institutional pride that I welcome you to the 9th Graduation Ceremony of Ankole Western University. This occasion marks a historic milestone in our University's journey as we celebrate 1,164 graduands, our largest graduating cohort ever, comprising both undergraduate and postgraduate students. This achievement is a testimony to God's faithfulness, the University's growth, and the collective commitment of our staff, students, parents, guardians, and stakeholders.

To our graduands, I extend my heartfelt congratulations! Today, we celebrate not only your academic achievements but also your resilience, determination, sacrifice, and perseverance. Your journey has demanded commitment and hard work, and your success today is a well-deserved reward. As you transition into the next chapter of your lives, remember that graduation is not the end of learning but the beginning of greater opportunities and responsibilities.

As graduates of Ankole Western University, I challenge you to live out our motto, "Light of the World." Let this be more than words; let it define your purpose, character, and contribution to society. The world needs enlightened minds, ethical leaders, innovative thinkers, and compassionate citizens capable of transforming communities and creating sustainable solutions to contemporary challenges. Wherever you go, let your knowledge illuminate lives, your leadership inspire hope, and your actions make a positive difference.

Remain firmly anchored in our core values of; Integrity, Hard Work, and Christ-Centeredness. Let integrity guide your decisions, hard work distinguish your contribution, and Christ-centeredness shape your character and relationships. Remember that academic qualifications may open doors, but it is your character, values, and commitment to excellence that will sustain your success. Be courageous in pursuing your dreams, embrace innovation and entrepreneurship, and commit yourselves to lifelong learning. Do not merely seek opportunities; become creators of opportunities and agents of transformation in Uganda, Africa, and the world.

On this special occasion, I wish to express our sincere appreciation to our Chancellor, Bishop Johnson Twinomujuni, for his spiritual leadership, wise counsel, and unwavering commitment to the University's vision and Christian identity. I also extend our profound gratitude to the University Council, under the able chairmanship of Dr. Nathan Karema, for its strategic guidance, governance, and stewardship in advancing the University's growth and institutional aspirations.

To our academic and support staff, I commend you for your dedication, professionalism, sacrifice, and commitment to the University's mission. Your collective contribution in teaching, research, mentorship, administration, and student support has been instrumental in shaping the graduates we celebrate today. We deeply appreciate your service.

To our parents, guardians, and sponsors, I extend a very special appreciation. We recognise the enormous sacrifices, financial investments, prayers, and encouragement you have made to support these graduands throughout their academic journeys. Your unwavering commitment has made this achievement possible. Today, as we celebrate the success of your children and dependants, we celebrate you too. May the almighty God richly reward your generosity and sacrifice.

As we look to the future, Ankole Western University remains committed to academic excellence, research, innovation, community transformation, and the development of graduates who are intellectually competent, morally upright, spiritually grounded, and responsive to society's needs. Our ambition is not merely to grow in numbers, but to deepen our quality, relevance, and impact while remaining true to our Christian foundation.

Dear graduands, as you leave this University, carry its name with pride and distinction. Be worthy ambassadors of its values and remain committed to making meaningful contributions wherever your paths lead. Let your lives reflect excellence, your work demonstrate integrity, and your leadership exemplify Christ-like service.

Go forth and be the Light of the World!

UNIVERSITY ANTHEM

To God be the glory, great things He hath done,
So loved He the world that He gave us His Son,
Who yielded His life our redemption to win,
And opened the life-gate that all may go in.

Praise the Lord, praise the Lord,
Let the earth hear His voice;
Praise the Lord, praise the Lord,
Let the people rejoice;
Oh, come to the Father, through Jesus the Son,
And give Him the glory; great things He hath done.

Oh, perfect redemption, the purchase of blood,
To every believer the promise of God;
The vilest offender who truly believes,
That moment from Jesus a pardon receives.

Great things He hath taught us, great things He hath done,
And great our rejoicing through Jesus the Son;
But purer, and higher, and greater will be
Our wonder, our transport when Jesus we see.

FROM MARGINS TO MAIN STAGE:

How Strategic Female Leadership Redefines Ankole Western University

"Space is never a neutral container, but a materialized social product continuously shaped by relations of power, gender and authority" (Lefebvre, 1991: Massey, 1994). Nowhere is this spatial politics more apparent than in higher education across East Africa, where institutional landscapes have historically mirrored patriarchal hierarchies of administrative control. Yet, at Ankole Western university (AWU) gender dynamics have evolved beyond static quotas into an active transformation of spatial authority, ceremonial presence, and academic governance. By examining an institutional landscape where women hold four out seven deanships, continuously direct high profile steering committees, and command public discourses as official masters of ceremonies, AWU emerges as a compelling case study on how strategic female leadership reshapes institutional space.

As Sara Ahmed (2012) notes, institutions are structured to reproduce default occupants , historically concentrating women in peripheral support functions rather than core academic decision making seats. AWU radically disrupts this default by embedding female leadership at the very heart of its faculties. With a majority of deanships held by women, academic policy, curriculum oversight, and board deliberations are driven by female perspectives that redefine deans' offices from mere administrative cubicles into primary nodes of authority. This critical mass shifts the organizational culture from systemic male dominance to balanced, inclusive framework of institutional governance.

Institutional power is both administrative and symbolic. Ceremonial events—most notably graduation ceremonies—are the public manifestation of a university's identity, structure, and values. For close to four consecutive years, the leadership of the Graduation Steering Committee has been held by female academics. Steering a graduation involves managing inter-departmental logistics, controlling spatial layouts, hosting national dignitaries, and directing institutional budgets. The presence of female Masters of Ceremonies at graduation ceremonies transforms the physical stage. The MC controls the flow, vocal cadence, and public direction of the assembly. When women hold the microphone at landmark institutional events, they dismantle long-standing assumptions about who embodies public authority in Western Uganda.

Beyond high-profile ceremonial events, gendered dynamics at Ankole Western University operate across everyday academic and socio-cultural spaces. Within lecture halls, female deans and academic staff actively navigate room presence and command scholarly discourse, establishing a visible precedent of spatial authority for student cohorts. Simultaneously, strong female representation within senate and governance bodies ensures that strategic planning and policy making remain gender responsive. Furthermore, the spatial proximity between academic offices and communal spaces effectively normalizes the duality of women executing administrative governance while maintaining a visible community presence.

So what does this mean for East Afrcan Higher Education? The institutional structure at Ankole Western University provides an important framework for how regional universities can cultivate female leadership: When female leadership is sustained consistently, it ceases to be treated as an tokenistic anomaly and becomes an institutional norm. At AWU, Female students witness women governing faculties, managing complex institutional budgets, and speaking authoritatively to thousands gathered on ceremonial grounds. This lived operational reality redefines career aspirations for emerging scholars. Furthermore, AWU demonstrates that academic excellence and balanced gender dynamics enhance institutional cohesion, proving that when female academics occupy spatial power, the entire university thrives.

Conclusively, the spatial trajectory of Ankole Western University proves that true institutional transformation does not occur through policy statements alone, but through management's conscious, courageous and deliberate commitment to empower women. When leadership intentionally entrusts women with the majority of deanships, hands them the steering wheel of the university's highest ceremonial committees and positions them at the microphone as the public voice of the institution, space ceases to be a site of passive containment. As Massey (1994) conceptualizes space an active matrix of power relations and Ahmed (2012) underscores the necessity of intentional institutional reform, AWU embodies this praxis. When leadership intentionally entrusts women with the majority of deanships, hands them steering wheel of the university's highest ceremonial committees and positions them at the microphone as the public voice of the institution, space ceases to be a site of passive containment. AWU stands as a living testament to intentional governance; a dynamic environment where women empowerment is no longer an afterthought or anomaly, but strategic, institutional choice that defines academic governance, drives civic authority and sets the benchmark for higher education and institutional excellence.
